Stewardship Prayer

My parish is composed of people like me.

I help make it what it is.

It will be friendly, if I am.

It will be holy, if I am.

Its pews will be filled, if I help fill them.

It will do great work, if I work.

It will be prayerful, if I pray.

It will make generous gifts to many causes,

if I am a generous giver.

It will bring others into worship,

if I invite and bring them.

It will be a parish of loyalty and love,

of fearlessness and faith,

of compassion, charity, and mercy,

if I, who make it what it is,

am filled with these same things.

Dear Friends,

Last weekend at St. Lawrence I spoke at all the Masses on the idea of good “stewardship” of our gifts of time, talent, and treasure. Stewardship begins when we acknowledge honestly and humbly that everything we are and everything we have comes as a gift of God. And that we need to use all we have for Him and for his Kingdom if we are going to be truly fulfilled and happy.

We need to pray with the help of the Holy Spirit about just how we should use our time, our talents and our treasure in the best ways possible. How does God see these things? What would he have us do with them?

This weekend at St. Lawrence the trustees of the parish will distribute a summary of our financial report for the fiscal year that ended August 31. It shows that while our financial situation is improving gradually, we are still operating at something of a deficit - something which we need to correct. After Communion they will give an explanation of the main items of the report so you can understand it better.

Sometimes people have the impression that our parishes are funded by the Archdiocese. That is not at all the case. Each parish is completely responsible for raising all its own funds. We don't get any subsidies from the Cardinal's Office. We're on our own financially. At the same time, we still answer to him for the administration of our parish. It would be nice if there was a special account somewhere paying our bills, but that's not the way the Church works...

Moreover, since we are part of the larger Catholic Church, we have responsibilities beyond our parish boundaries and so we are assessed by the Cardinal for support of Archdiocesan operations, Catholic schools, and many other charities that help the poor and missionary work the Church carries on.

You probably received the letter and envelope about our Increased Offertory Campaign in the mail. Last week I challenged you at St. Lawrence to consider giving a fixed percentage of your income to support the Church... if you are giving 1% of your household income, consider giving 2%. If you are giving 5%, consider raising it to 6%.

Another way to take a step to good stewardship is to commit to an increase each week. If you are giving $20 weekly, give $25. If you are giving $50, give $62.50, and so on. Whatever you can increase, it will be a blessing to this amazing parish and we will be very grateful. You can use the envelope you received and drop it in the collection, or use one of the envelopes in the Church for your commitment.

Remember, God will never be outdone in generosity – he will always bless you when you give.

God bless,

Fr. Richard Gill

MARRIED OUTSIDE THE CHURCH?

If you or a family member is married outside the Church (e.g. By a justice of the peace or a non-Catholic ceremony), it is not considered a valid marriage by the Church. It is important to receive the Sacrament of Matrimony (or as some say, have the marriage "blessed") in order to live fully the life of the Church and participate in the sacraments. We're here to help. Call Fr. Gill at the Parish Office to discuss the situation and see what can be done.

EXPECTING A BABY?

Call the Parish Office and let us know. There is a special blessing for parents expecting a child and we would love to arrange a time for you to receive it at Mass.

WHY ADORATION IS MORE COMPLETE THAN MEDITATION

Suzanne Elizabeth Anderson | Oct 01, 2017

If you walk into my parish church on any given Thursday between 5 and 6 p.m. you might be confused. In the dim light of early evening, you will find four to 20 people sitting in silence. Some might even be reading.

You could think they were waiting for something to happen. The start of a church service, perhaps? But, no, not at this time. Instead, each person will sit for the entire hour in silence. And yes, you will see a core group of the same people every week. I've become one of them. Apart from Mass, this is the hour I look forward to most each week. In our weekly church bulletin, it's listed simply as "Adoration." It's also known as Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament, an hour of contemplative prayer as we sit in the presence of God with the exposition of the consecrated Host displayed in a starburst monstrance on the altar.

After attending sporadically, I began to realize how much I was receiving within this hour, and have tried to make it every week. I have devotional time with God every morning at home. I read the Bible, then a devotional, and I pray. But there is something palpably different going on during Adoration, and there is no other way to say it except that when sitting in the presence of the Blessed Sacrament and allowing my mind to become still, I sense the presence of God in a way that is altogether different than when I pray at home.

I look at the Master, and the Master looks at me. And the love bounds and abounds. Pope Saint John Paul called it the "wellspring of grace."

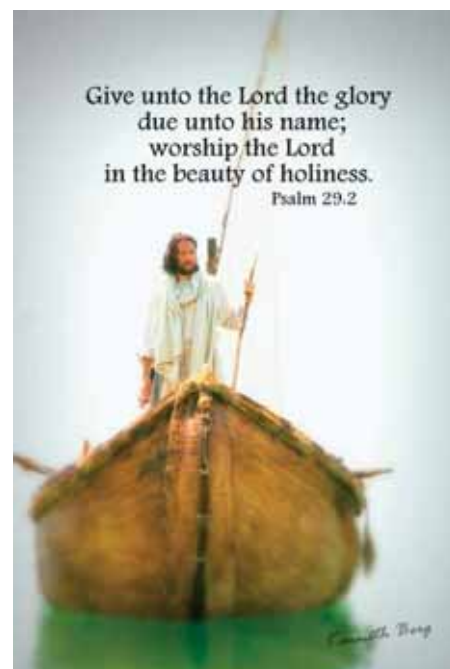

In the beginning, I thought Adoration and contemplative prayer served a similar purpose to meditation, a quieting of one's mind. However, after reading a slim volume by Henri J.M. Nouwen, titled Clowning in Rome, my understanding shifted.

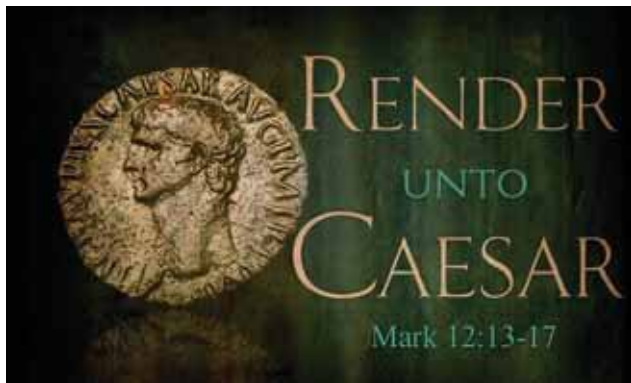

In meditation, the goal is to attain an emptying of the self. During the hour of Adoration, we quiet the mind, empty ourselves, but only so that we can become filled with the Holy Spirit. We do not remain empty. Rather than sitting in isolation, we are joined by God; we form a relationship and an understanding that He is as interested in our concerns as we are.

Weekly Adoration has changed my whole approach to prayer. It has taught me the value of spending an extended time in prayerful conversation with God. The hour is needed because when we first arrived our head is full of chatter, and we bring that harried state – and the last thing we were dwelling on – right into Adoration with us. For about the first 20 minutes, my Adoration conversation is all Around the 30-minute mark, my mind clears, and I can finally turn my attention toward God. In prayer, I will sometimes repeat the name of God, or Jesus, or breathe out to the Holy Spirit, as a means of focusing both my attention and intention on God's presence.

When I finally let go, I am able simply to worship. From this foundation, this hour of contemplative prayer, we can grow into what Nouwen describes as the practice of "unceasing prayer." We turn the never-ending thoughts that fill our mind during the day into an ongoing dialogue with God, by opening our heart and mind to His continual presence always with us, by offering our thoughts to Him.

As our thoughts move from a "self-centered monologue to a God-centered dialogue" we go from "fearful isolation into a fearless conversation with God." This connection has helped me. I encourage you to try it: set aside one hour a week for contemplative prayer and dialogue with God.

Everything belongs to God,
even Caesar's coins

Oct 20, 2011

by Thomas Gumbleton

BLOG | THE PEACE PULPIT

These words of Jesus at the end of today's Gospel are perhaps among the most misunderstood words of Jesus in all the Scriptures, in all the Gospels because many, many people, and perhaps some of us, interpret these words as Jesus declaring there are two totally separate realms. There is Caesar's, the political, human realm, and then there is God's. There are two separate forms of our existence, what we might call in current terms the religious and the political, and they should never be brought together. They are totally separate.

I'm sure many of you have heard how we're supposed to keep religion out of politics, and sometimes I've heard people criticize a homily because "Father got political today." So there is a separation, but what Jesus is teaching us today is not that there is a separation. That would be totally foreign to the idea of the chosen people, the Jewish people. For them, everything belonged to God, and when Jesus was responding to those Pharisees and Herodians, He was reminding them that that coin in the pocket of one of them belonged to God. The person himself belongs to God.

All of the world, the universe, everything is God's, and we can't separate our lives into a secular sphere and a religious sphere. It has to be all one. Perhaps it helps if we understand a little bit better what was happening in the confrontation. As Matthew said, they were trying to trap Jesus because the chosen people had been occupied now by the Roman army and they had lost their freedom, and so the Romans, represented by Caesar, had imposed taxes on them. Many of the Jews would refuse absolutely to pay those taxes because they would not cooperate with the Roman authorities.

A REMINDER THAT IN CHURCH...

Out of respect for God's house and the Blessed Sacrament, and in order to keep the one hour Eucharistic fast required before receiving Holy Communion, we should not chew gum or eat anything in Church. Thanks for observing this detail of Catholic life. Let's also keep a respectful silence in Church before and after Mass, and speak only if truly necessary, and in a low tone of voice.
