while we're at it

our vision Create a parish of missionary disciples whose personal relationship with Jesus Christ inspires others into a life-changing relationship with Him.

Dear Friends,

We rightly honor our Veterans this day for the sacrifices they made for our freedom. This week also commemorates the centenary of the end of what was then known as the Great War – the war, it was thought, that was so terrible it would end all wars. How we wish it had!

These events remind us of the debt of gratitude we owe to so many unnamed and anonymous people for the freedoms and privileges we can sometimes take for granted. Of the many people who sacrificed to make it possible for us to have our lives and our liberty.

Let's not just remember them.
Let's make sure we pray to God for them in this month of the Holy Souls – that they be united with God forever in heaven.

Perhaps we don't talk or think enough about the souls of all those who have passed away. Of course, we pray for them in the Mass during the Eucharistic Prayer, often during the Prayer of the Faithful. Our society seems to suggest they just cease to exist, and sometimes we get the impression from popular culture they continue to exist as some kind of angels. But they don't.

Christian belief is that immediately at our death comes judgment, and we either enter directly into heaven, or are condemned to hell. For those who die in the state of grace but with venial sins on their souls, or temporal punishment due, they need to go to Purgatory to be purified and readied for heaven. That is probably true of most people and so the souls in Purgatory need our prayers.

But especially in this month of November, dedicated to the Holy Souls, we should be sure to pray for them. We should pray especially for our relatives who have passed away and we should visit their graves to pray. It is a great act of charity to do so, as it is to offer Masses for them. We respect and maintain their graves as a sign of respect and as a reminder to us that our day will come.

Someday we may be in Purgatory and we will need our loved ones and the members of the Church praying for us as well. True charity starts with praying for others.

God bless,

Fr. Richard

all the saints on all saints day

Sacred Heart Church not only had a very crowded evening Mass to celebrate All Saint's Day but many of the parishioners from both of our churches dressed up as their favorite saint and we all had refreshments afterwards. The best part was the excitement from our Sacred Heart's second graders who dressed up and couldn't wait to tell us who they were.

leading them to love

Tracey Earl Welliver, MTS

And people brought to him a deaf man who had a speech impediment and begged him to lay his hand on him. He took him off by himself away from the crowd. He put his finger into the man's ears and spitting, touched his tongue; then he looked up to heaven and groaned, and, said to him, "Ephphatha!" (that is, "Be opened!") And [immediately] the man's ears were opened, his speech impediment was removed, and he spoke plainly. He ordered them not to tell anyone. But the more he ordered them not to, the more they proclaimed it. —Mark 7:32-36

I remember being a child when just the invasion of a frightening thought could send me running into my parents' bed for safety. One night it was the movie I watched on television before I went to bed. Another night it was the sudden thought of what if someone I loved suddenly died. Whatever the reason for fear, the closeness of my mother or father could easily make all things better. I felt completely secure.

As I got older, I began to realize that my parents couldn't protect me from everything. That was okay because most of what I feared as a child now seemed, well, childish. Later in my life, my own children would seek the comfortable confines of their parents' bed, and I would remember those youthful days once again.

I cannot, just like my parents before me, offer much to calm the fears of my children other than give them love. However, I can lead them to the One who has the power to truly defeat anything or anyone that seeks to harm them. He can help them see when they are blind, teach them to speak when they are speechless, and help them walk again after they have fallen. Of course, His name is Jesus.

I wish I could do all those things for them, because my love is so overwhelming for them. But my job is to lead them to the One who can do all these things. He has entrusted them to me and I am called to return them to Him. That's what a good steward would do. When they are young, they can easily feel like my love is enough. But when they are older, they will need the One whose love is truly enough, because it is not merely human, it is miraculous.

Idea for response

Think of someone who is living in fear or someone who has a fear of something specific. Pray for that person and then reach out to him or her.

Take time to reflect

Who is someone God has entrusted to me to lead him or her closer to Him?

you're amazing

Greg Rabito

Last Sunday St Lawrence O' Toole hosted Hard as Nails Ministries for a special event for the 8 th grade EDGE program. Hard as Nails works to spread the gospel of Jesus Christ through encouraging young people and adults in their faith journeys. With the message of "You're Amazing" the ministry hopes to inspire all people to live more authentic lives as loved children of God.

The event began with a football toss and other activities to get the kids excited for the day. Then, Catholic speaker Justin Fatica preached on his story of encouraging others and overcoming hardships. The kids were told that they were never alone in their struggles and someone always shares in our bad times. Parents were invited to join their child for the last hour to hear Justin preach. This time was a touching experience where parents and kids could pray and express their love for each other. The event was a unique time of prayer and encounter with Jesus Christ.
