while we're at it

our vision Create a parish of missionary disciples whose personal relationship with Jesus Christ inspires others into a life-changing relationship with Him.

Dear Friends,

It's Christmas time finally, in the worst year ever. So many have fallen ill, so many of us lost loved ones in the pandemic. We had to go to lock-down with no Mass and no Eucharist for months. We don't even know the mental and emotional health cost of the separations, of not seeing loved ones, of not celebrating holidays together. And it's not over yet.

But there is hope on the horizon, and not just with the arrival of a vaccine – though that is critically important.

The hope on the horizon for a Christian is always Jesus Christ. This week we celebrate his birth in our world, his fulfillment of the promise God made to send a Savior, and to give us hope that this world, no matter how broken or dysfunctional, always has him as the answer to our cries.

When times are good we tend to forget some important truths and we think everything will continue to sail along. Most important among those truths is that this world is a broken one, and we will always struggle and fight until the day when the Lord comes and puts an end to all time.

As Christians, we have to keep that faith perspective alive. It helps us be realistic about how much hope we put in this world, and grounds our hope more in the promise of Jesus Christ. He is the Lord of History and of the universe. Hope is not about tomorrow being better than today and the next day even better. It factors in the sin and the chaos caused by humans. It deals with the world realistically – there is a real possibility things can get worse: persecution and war and economic crashes.

But our Christian hope looks for redemption from the only real source – from God himself. He is all-powerful, and he is always faithful to his promises.

This week we celebrate his greatest promise: to send "...his only Son, that the world might not perish, but have eternal life" (John 3: 16)

A Blessed Christmas to all!

God bless,

Fr. Richard Gill

going to church is good for your mental health

Americans who attend religious services weekly are the only demographic group appearing to show improved mental health in 2020, despite the stresses of the coronavirus pandemic and other events, says a new survey.

The survey otherwise shows significant self-reported mental health declines among those previously in excellent health.

In 2019, about 42% of those who reported attending religious services weekly told Gallup that their mental health was excellent. In 2020, 46% said the same, an increase of 4 percentage points. Only 35% of those who attend services nearly weekly or monthly reported excellent mental health, down 12 percentage points from last year. Among those who attend seldom or never, 29% reported excellent mental health, down 13 percentage points.

seeking God's face

BOB O'DONNELL

This fall my wife, Carrie, and I took the Prayer: Seeking the Face of God program with Brian Sullivan. In this turbulent time I felt I personally needed more prayer in my life. We're all so isolated and cut off from one another, even in the mist of this technology age.

Brian's knowledge on Scripture and his interpretation of the passages is nothing short of a God send. I have never been comfortable with prayer; I have struggled to make a personal connection with it. I say the words and my intentions are good but there always seemed to be something missing.

After taking this class I feel I have deepened my understanding of the spiritual nature of prayer and what it means, and even what it's not supposed to mean. I find myself praying the rosary with joy rather than going through the motions.

The class was small and very versatile. Brian spoke to all levels of understanding of prayer from the veteran Catholic to the recently enlightened and to the struggling Catholic. The class helped me truly understand the importance and significance of daily prayer and meditation. It also gave me some avenues to explore further and how to get a deeper perspectives on prayer.

I would recommend this class to anyone. Whether you're a Catholic who goes to daily Mass and or weekly Adoration or if you're just starting your Catholic journey. Prayer is powerful and it needs to be fully appreciated in order for us to meaningfully communicate with our Father in heaven.

creating an advent tradition

TRISH TRAYCHEFF

About 20 unique and artistic Advent wreaths were created by family and friends on Nov. 29. An Advent wreath of evergreen branches represents God's infinite love and hope for eternal life. The evening was peaceful and many previously undiscovered talents were revealed.

Each wreath had three purple and one pink candle to count the four weeks of Advent while we wait to receive the light of God.

Hope, peace, joy and love are our focus as we wait for the birth of Jesus. Each candle marks another week closer.

As an accountant, I am no DaVinci but with supplies from Cecelia Britez and Clara Segreti, my Advent wreath developed into a lovely centerpiece. Every newly created wreath made with different types of evergreen, embellished with colorful ribbons, brought a harmony to the beginning of what can sometimes be a commercial and frenetic season.

The evening was peaceful and light and deepened our sense of community. The activity was calm and relaxing and everyone had a chance to put their own personal touch on this most wonderful time of the year. What a beautiful way to gather to prepare for Christmas.

advent by candlelight

CARRIE O'DONNELL

Every Christmas is joyful. Even Christmas 2020.

Our first Advent By Candlelight womens evening, For Such a Time as This: An Advent Retreat was recently held at St. Lawrence O'Toole, with speaker Jennifer Edwards. We listened to her words by candlelight, with advent wreaths lit across the room as a reminder of the season and the reason for our meeting. Those words were a reminder of our strength and joy in the Lord. A joy that is permanent, gifted to us by a loving God.

In this difficult year, we are called to prepare our hearts for the birth of our Lord. We are called to remain steadfast through all of the trials and hardships that are put in front of us. But we are not alone. God strengthens us and is always faithful, providing us any number of ways to connect with him during this holiday season, through prayer, adoration, daily and weekly Mass, and rosaries to our Holy Mother.

We were given time to reflect on these topics in small groups, with fellowship over dinner and drinks. This was such a special time and a reminder that He not only has provided us with women role models in the bible, such as Mary and Esther, but also in everyday life through our mothers, sisters, and friends.

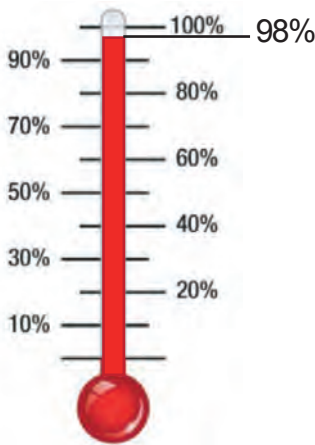

Let us remember to love, trust, and be joyful in this advent season. Even in 2020.

*Joyful, all you nations, rise, Join the triumph of the skies;
With the angelic host proclaim, "Christ is born in Bethlehem!"*

the way

LYNDA HOLLER DIRECTOR OF DISCIPLESHIP

Series 3: Which Way? #1 – The Slow Road

When I was a girl, my grandparents were retired and they would spend a few weeks in the winter with family in Florida, escaping the brutal cold and snow of Western NY. They would pack up their sedan, head east to the Atlantic, and then south on Route 1. Rather than take I-95, the superhighway, they preferred the slow-moving path through towns and farmlands. For the several days it took them to reach the Sunshine State, they stopped in mom-and-pop restaurants and family motels meeting new people and appreciating the Americana culture that historic roadway offered.

The journey to them was as important as the destination. That was almost 50 years ago and I wonder how many people drive from New York to Florida via Route 1 these days. We are all in a hurry, tightly scheduling every minute, but is choosing the widest, fastest route always the best one? And might our choice of highways be symbolic of other life choices we are making?

This brings to mind the prophet Isaiah's words, "And your ears shall hear a word behind you: 'This is the way; walk in it,' when you would turn to the right or the left."

Have you noticed that when you slow down, interesting things happen? A chance meeting with a delightful stranger? A radiant sunset over a hill you have never passed before? A quaint little store previously unnoticed? Jesus wants to lead us through a compelling and captivating life full of wonder and opportunity. He wants us to stay attuned to Him and be open to his nudgings.

When we jump on the superhighways of life, what opportunities, what people, what experiences do we miss? Can we hear those quiet words: "This is the way..." in the speed of our life today? The fast road or the slow road: which way do you choose?

Scripture: Read Isaiah 30:21. What is God saying to you?

Call to Action: Decide to get off the superhighway at least once during the week and keep an eye out for a message or experience.
