while we're at it

Dear Friends,

Do you know what theme Jesus talks about more than any other in all the Gospels? No, it's not the Ten Commandments, or the Pharisees, or even about Heaven. Guess... You'll be surprised to know it's about money.

That's right – Jesus talks about money about 17 times. He understood that money itself was not the problem, but as he says, “the desire for money is the root of all evil.” Wealth itself is neutral but it is our use of it that matters. The desire for more and more of it can corrupt us and twist our conscience, warping it with greed and envy, and leading to the loss of souls. People put it before God, and “you cannot serve both God and money.” Money can be a trap if we don't use it wisely as God tells us to use it.

It's why in the Old Testament God told the Israelites to tithe, that is, to give the first 10% back to God and live on the remaining 90%. In truth, all material things are God's, and we are just stewards of what he has created.

Tithing makes us aware of the proper relationship we should have to material things – entrusted with their good use, but not really to do with them just anything we please.

That's why the rich will be judged more severely depending on how they used their wealth – did they help the poor and those suffering? Or did they squander it on indulgences and luxuries? Sometimes we see that the richest people give away only a tiny percentage of their money. “Woe to them.” Jesus says it is easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven.

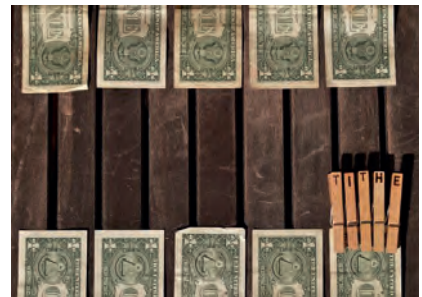

For most of us in the middle, we also have responsibilities to use what we have for God, for his Church, to give others a better chance at salvation, to restore the dignity of the poor, and the homeless, to help the sick and suffering, and so on. We can get greedy and selfish just like the rich, but maybe on a smaller scale.

We should all strive to give away that first 10% for the works of God and trust him to help us live on the 90%. Those who do that never go hungry; they find that God provides for them and they have all they need. And they have the peace of soul knowing they have their priorities right.

How about you? Do you give to God first or do you give him the leftovers when you've taken care of everything else first? Take this one to prayer.

God bless,

Fr. Richard

family program

CECILIA BRITZ

I asked the children and parents this weekend if they really wanted to be at the Family Program? Or if they would have rather stayed in their home watching a good movie and eating something sweet while flipping through the channels on a rainy Sunday afternoon. The majority raised their hand at the alternative option. Yet, they were seating in the cafeteria ready for our hour and a half of Family Program. Why?

The answer: the parents love their children and they know that walking in the faith with them is good, very good. So, moms and dads and little and older siblings all come together to spend some time laughing, snacking, cutting and gluing, listening to the Word, and listening to why God matters and how much He longs for a deeper relationship with us.

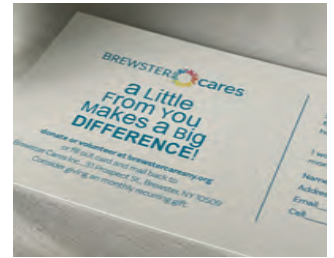

Last month we learned all about Abraham and how he is our Father in Faith. This month we learned about Mary and how she is our Mother in Faith. We made the Sacred Heart of Jesus and the Immaculate Heart of Mary.

We discovered that Jesus's and Mary's heart are always connected and how Mary is the easiest and shortest way to love Jesus more deeply. Our girls dressed like Mary and our boys dressed like Saint John of the Cross.

We transported ourselves to the moment where, at the foot of the cross, Jesus gave us His own mother as a gift, so we can all become his 'beloved disciples' and take Mary home as our Mother.

Month after month we will learn more about what Faith means and how this gift is given to us to bring us closer to the mystery of the love incarnate. This is the love that became flesh and dwelled among us...and remains with us in the Eucharistic.

Give your children and grandchildren the gift of being part of something special and full of joy! Invite your friends and neighbors. Email: familyprogrambrewster@gmail.com. We are looking forward to seeing you soon.

helping the homeless

JUDY CALLAHAN

Last Sunday, Brewster Cares hosted the 2nd Annual Luncheon at Las Mañanitas. Old friends and new came together to learn more about the successes of Brewster Cares and the impact it has had on the lives of people whose struggles we perhaps cannot even comprehend.

Led in prayer by Fr. Rich, the event opened and guests enjoyed flowing beverages and a delicious lunch. We were treated to a poignant video in which one of the shelter guests from last season spoke about her personal journey. There was the warmth of the shelter, but that was nothing compared to the warmth of the volunteers. There was the richness of the food that was served, but that paled in comparison to the richness of the Holy Spirit that was alive and working through these volunteers.

Happily, permanent housing was found for several of our former guests. They, in turn, helped one another as they recognized the growth they were experiencing, all due to the helping hands of Brewster Cares.

We were also very pleased to see our friends from Trinity Lutheran Church, who have worked tirelessly at the shelter for many years and who remain committed to this mission of mercy.

The occasion was also a tribute to several honorees, all of whom have contributed their time and talent to both the parish and Brewster Cares. Ray and Kathy Pellecchia were the recipients of the 2022 Outstanding Service award for the countless hours spent doing virtually any task where help was needed. Sadly, we are all grieving the loss of our dear friend Kathy, but their son Andrew, daughter AnnMarie and son-in-law Mark were there with Ray to accept this honor for both him and Kathy.

The Friend of the Poor award was presented to Mike Piazza, our friend, advisor, and advocate, for his ongoing assistance in creating a viable shelter at a moment's notice. As the Putnam County Commissioner of Mental Health and Social Services, his knowledge is invaluable, but it is his heart that truly speaks.

Our most sincere thanks are extended to Luis of Las Mañanitas for once again underwriting the cost of this event. Their generosity enables every penny raised to directly support the good work of Brewster Cares.

eternal grace

Sitting in church last Tuesday, waiting for Helen Rozzi's funeral to begin, I found myself asking God what my funeral will be like one day. Will I live into my 100s with my children and close family and friends predeceasing me? If I die next week, will people travel and take time off of work? Will I die suddenly or after a prolonged illness? God in his wisdom didn't give me any answers; maybe they are of minor importance. He reminded me, however, of what is of major importance.

Several years ago, when my Uncle Bob was dying, he instructed his four children not to have a funeral Mass. He just wanted his family and friends to gather at the fire hall, drink beer, and tell funny stories. He was raised Catholic; his children received their sacraments, but their faith was not an important part of their lives. Since they had a broken relationship with the Church, his sons and daughters didn't question his wishes. It felt to me that Uncle Bob was telling God that he didn't need Him.

I couldn't help but recognize the stark contrast between Uncle Bob's send-off to the beautiful tributes for Helen Rozzi, Gerry Green, and Kathy Pellicchia, three long-time parishioners whose funerals I attended recently. Their families brought their wives and mothers, husband and father to the church that was home to them, filled with parishioners that loved them, officiated by a priest that knew them personally. The families chose Scripture readings and hymns that were meaningful and gave the rest of us the privilege of uniting our prayers for their loved ones with theirs in the holy sacrifice of the Mass.

For a Catholic, a Mass of Christian Burial is essential. What happens in that holy space cannot be accomplished in a fire hall or funeral home. It is coming together before God in his house, to worship, appeal for his mercy, and intercede for the soul of the deceased. And it can take the sting of death away for the rest of us, as we confidently give our loved ones to God, knowing He is the One who loved them first.

Scripture: Read Wisdom 3:5-9. What stands out?

Call to Action: More important than planning for retirement is planning for eternity. Make sure you and your loved ones receive the graces that only a funeral Mass can provide.
